I am able to load the image but I need to show an Toast with this image on the UI. The code I am using is NSString *s_ImageURL = @"": NSURL *url = [NSURL URLWithString:s_ImageURL]; [imgView loadRequest:[NSURLRequest requestWithURL:url]]; Is there a way to show a Toast when image is loaded into UIWebView? A: Use these methods, - (void)loadView { [self loadTheImageIntoWebView:webView]; } - (void)loadTheImageIntoWebView:(UIWebView *)webView { NSURLRequest *request = [NSURLRequest requestWithURL:[NSURL URLWithString:@""]]; [webView loadRequest:request]; } Hope it helps! When an independent developer goes dark, it's often a powerful motivator for Steam users. When one of the biggest names in the business is no longer willing to help out its customers, that motivation only intensifies. Case in point: indie developer Carnivorous Sheep, which is currently residing in bankruptcy, has ceased to exist, and its former developer/publisher, Deep Silver, recently confirmed to fans that it is now no longer handling the firm's current projects. Here's the message sent to fans from Deep Silver co-founder and COO Ulrich Mansdorf: Dear patrons of Carnivorous Sheep, I would like to share with you the sad news that Deep Silver Games is no longer in a position to provide development or publishing services for Carnivorous Sheep and its upcoming game, Rage of the Gladiator. Deep Silver had been one of the partners and publisher for the indie developer since its early days. They supported and facilitated the development of the Carnivorous Sheep franchise for several years, and put some considerable time

It is a task. Epicalsdl in different form. I am writing this on the web site. I need. A review to my friend (she said it is a gift. To me). I want to thank you for your kindness. . The Brazilian community, in English, consists of four groups: native, residential, legal, and administrative. The native community, also known as the Indigenous Brazilian, is composed of those who have been in Brazil for at least one or two generations, and whose parents and grandparents speak and understand the Brazilian Portuguese language. The residential community consists of the Brazilian descendants who have been living in the United States for at least 10 years and who are also fluent in English, yet are of Brazilian descent. The legal community is composed of foreign nationals and their families who are granted permanent residence in the United States and permanent citizenship as long as they continue to live and work in the United States. The administrative community is made up of individuals who are employed by the federal, state, and local government, as well as by the private sector in different administrative capacities, including employment or self-employment.
