You can safely ignore it. the disciples. He could be a role model for them. These two reject Jesus based on an imperfect understanding of the gospel. He really should apologize, but that is not his nature. I mean it was Saturday that Jesus died, not Friday. It seems to me like he was talking about Friday. I think the context of the story about the elder son is that the father wants his wife to bury her son, but he knows it is not a good idea. She has already lost a son, and she has had enough. The father ultimately respects her decision. Jesus, on the other hand, is at odds with the will of God. He is disobeying God, so he will be killed. The story of the prodigal son is about the son's disobedience. The father was disappointed because the son disobeyed. The son asked for forgiveness and was welcomed back to the family. Jesus seems to be talking about Friday night. The story of the prodigal son is that someone who was repentant of his sins was welcomed back into the family. This son had offended his father, but he was still welcomed back. How could anyone honestly think he was talking about Friday evening? That kind of inconsistency and messiness in the way you're using your own words. Jesus could have been referring to the day of Jesus' death, but that would
