I am the developer of an Android app. I have a problem in which I want to remove it from Google Play Store and get it fixed. I have already gone through the solution given in this link Remove app from Google Play Store But there is a condition in which I have to disable the Google Play Services in the app (I mean I have to disable the Google Play Services in all the modules and activitys of the app. I am doing that and it is working fine.) So, can I have any alternate solution to that? A: What you can do is: Disable the service in the app in the way you describe. Build a new release of your app, and release it (it is still on the store) If you haven't made any money from that app yet, start selling it again. Go to Play Store and download the app. Run the app on your device and disable Google Play Services in Settings. Then go to Manage Applications and uncheck the Google Play Services of the app you want to remove. Save the app and uninstall it from your device. Now, you can submit a new release of the app with only Google Play Services and you can ask Google to remove it from Play Store. Q: How to use GraphicsMagick to copy and compress image to another directory I'm trying to use GraphicsMagick to copy a png image into a new directory using the following command: `graphicsmagick -include *.png -crop 320x180! -resize 320x180 -colors 256 -monochrome -depth 8 -quality 100 -define resize:format=jpeg -define png:size=80 %s` This works perfectly for one PNG image and does what I need it
