Their first album "All' Stradale" (Italia) was released during the same year in 1989. The album that became the breakthrough of the band, brought "All' Stradale" to the highest point of their career in Europe. A true crossover hit in more than one country, Clark and Ryan had their own sold out concerts in places like London, Paris, Berlin, Munich, Amsterdam, Milan, Rio De Janeiro, Buenos Aires, and Santiago, Chile to name a few. One of their most successful albums "L'italo-americano" (Italia, U.S.) turned out to be a huge hit and has been rated one of the best Power Pop albums of all times. The band took a sabbatical in order to regroup and by 1994 they came back and released two albums that were considered the best of that year: "Piero & Peppino" and "Over the Top". Both albums were huge European hits that later sold even more copies than their first albums and both sold many copies in the U.S. as well. In 2001, the band released "Via Italia" that managed to sell more copies than all of their previous albums. With "Via Italia" Clark and Ryan had a breakthrough in Japan where the band performed in the country's biggest rock festivals and even got a platinum album. The band was awarded the "Rockol Comuni" or Prize of the City of Milan (Italy) and it was there where they got their name "All' Stradale". The band's first studio album in German was released in 2003 and since that they have never stopped recording. They have released several albums and are still on the go.I am a sucker for adventure and the outdoors and the water. I like to camp, fish, canoe, hunt, scuba dive, free dive, swim, kayak, play volleyball. My only goal is to see how many different areas I can visit in a year. I'm an adventurous gal who loves the outdoors. I love
