Scaling fixed price We believe that there are many students starting online projects. If they're learning high-level programming languages, they are like rockstars. They want to finish the project and try their skill. If the average funding of those high-level programming students is 1000$ and the cost per unit in ICO market is 10,000$ and we refund everyone's deposit, the new price of the project will be 20,000$. Students are in no ways connected to the price in the ICO. They can expect and demand a refund. 2. Security Since most of the projects are web based, it is easier to hack them. What if the stake is stolen or the project is not approved? If you sell coins to someone in exchange of ETH, there's a high chance you will lose your coins. 3. Confidence is the most sought after thing. The idea of investors and students are connected. The higher the confidence is, the more students share the project's coin with investors. There's a good chance to connect those projects to students and investors. Therefore, ETHE Coin will give investors the chance to be the top priority and get the most confidence. 4. Reclaim the small number of investors. If the market becomes saturated, most investors will spend their time looking for small gains to earn more. This problem is solved by ETHE Coin. There will always be people who are looking for small gains. The
