Unlike most other contemporary art discourses that viewed 'creativity' as intrinsic to human beings, Singer's.1. Technical Field The present invention relates to an image forming apparatus provided with a shunt resistor and a semiconductor circuit for driving an intermediate transfer belt. 2. Related Art In an image forming apparatus such as a printer, a copier, and a facsimile machine which includes a plurality of image forming units, a plurality of transfer belts each being supported around a plurality of rotatable rollers, and a semiconductor circuit for driving the transfer belt, a load fluctuation in the transfer belt affects the semiconductor circuit. If the load fluctuation in the transfer belt is severe, a high voltage is applied to the semiconductor circuit, which may damage the semiconductor circuit. To avoid this problem, an image forming apparatus has been proposed in which the electric resistance of a shunt resistor connected to the transfer belt is changed to reduce a fluctuation in a current flowing in the transfer belt, thereby reducing a fluctuation in a voltage applied to the semiconductor circuit. In general, a shunt resistor is formed of a low-resistance material. However, since the resistance of the shunt resistor is low, the difference between an actual resistance of the shunt resistor and an apparent resistance thereof is small. In this case, the fluctuation in a voltage applied to the semiconductor circuit may be reduced by an amount corresponding to the difference between the actual resistance of the shunt resistor and an apparent resistance thereof. However, this may increase an effect of noise. Optimal parenteral therapy of the newborn: red blood cell transfusion practices in newborn intensive care units and their association with mortality. Venovenous hemodialysis is the preferred mode of renal replacement therapy in the newborn, and red blood cell transfusions are administered for anemia, to improve oxygen delivery and to control bleeding in other clinical scenarios. We sought to determine the current practice of red blood cell transfusion in newborn intensive care units (NICUs) in
